

Fire Extinguisher / Warden Training

There is a legal requirement for staff to have an adequate level of fire safety training. The level will vary depending on the size of the business and the inherent risks within the workplace.

Depending on the fire risk assessment and the subsequent fire policy/emergency plan, selected staff (competent persons) will be required to undertake training to a set level.

Under UK legislation, the responsible person is required to include suitable and sufficient instruction and training on the appropriate precautions and actions to be taken by the employee in order to safeguard themselves and other relevant persons on the premises. This should be repeated periodically where appropriate; the responsible person must appoint one or more competent persons to assist them in undertaking the preventive and protective measures.

Kings Fire conduct training courses using our highly experienced fire trainers. Training is carried out at our client's business premises to minimize travel and disruption to the working day.

Upon completion of each training course, we issue each delegate a certificate of attendance.

We can provide the following courses:

- Fire extinguisher training
- Fire warden training
- Bespoke training tailored to your requirements

Our courses include practical fire extinguisher use on a live fire. Also included in the practical session is the opportunity for delegates to use fire blankets on a live fire. We believe the practical sessions to be one of the best forms of training.

In the event your business works shifts or unusual hours we can carry out your training to suit your requirements.

For a free quotation to carry out your fire training please contact us using the information below.

www.kingsfire.co.uk

For help, advice and sales, please call

01462 337037

Alternatively, email

info@kingsfire.co.uk